

Bermuda Triangle Poem

*Thought everything was fine
Now, you're running out of time*

*Hours ago, we were at a banquet
Now, waves cover you up like a blanket*

*The view of the sea was beautiful and enlightening
Now, the boat gets bombarded with lightning*

*Laughter and giggles used to echo throughout the vessel
Now, the seas only wrestle*

*We weren't scared about the water
Now, the air around us is filled with slaughter*

*They called the triangle a joke
Now, there's nothing but smoke*

*Citizens were drinking champagne
Now, there's a cloud of methane*

*Guests were munching on lobster
Now, they spot a sea monster*

*In the sky there used to be planes
Now, they crashed because of a hurricane*

*The weather reporter said light rain
Now, I see bloodstains*

*This experience hurts like a knife
Now, we can look forward to life*
